'Life is a tragedy for those who feel,
A comedy for those who think."
Thus said
A wise man, and it struck me as I read
The words, that he had closed as with a seal
The volume of Philosophy. The wheel
To which we all are bound rolls straight ahead
And knows no tears or laughter; we are led
By our own temperament to woe or weal.
And yet, how few have feeling without thought!
And thought without emotion, fewer still.
To the great number of us, life is naught
But tragi-comedy; we laugh our fill
Hysterically, laugh until we weep—
Then, ere the tears cease flowing, fall on sleep.

—Robinson.

The rising sun is always a challenge to every individual. It means another day. another chance to accomplish what you failed to do on yesterday.

* * *

There was a time when we used to think that after we reached the age of forty, and had not made our mark and won success, that we should become reconciled to our fate and give up further effort. We now, however, have an entirely different point of view, and realize that a man or a woman has to reach the age of forty before they have the mentality to make much of a contribution to life.

* * *

Ford arrived at the half century mark in life before we knew there was such an individual. Corot—the world's greatest painter of landscapes—received not the slightest recognition until he was sixty-five years of age. And in checking up the high executives of the nation, we find that most of them were white-haired before their names got on the front page of the big daily newspapers.

* * *

It is only when we realize that there is no such thing as age in Mind, that we catch a glimpse of Hope; which ever stands at the threshold to beckon us onward.

* * *

Progress is the result of experience. If we are big enough to learn our lessons in the School of Life, there is always a chance for us to turn failure into success.

* * *

You may never have been able to make friends; to secure recognition; to obtain your heart's desire; to be known as a success, and yet—if you can but arouse your spirit of conquest—you may make a fresh start tomorrow and go forth and batter down the walls of obstacles and win success.

* * *

Dressing oneself up in borrowed clothes to appear wiser than one really is, however, only provokes laughter and a reputation of being a counterfeit.

It is only by continually striving day by day, to make a worthwhile contribution to life, that we eventually attain results.

SAN JOSE MAN DESIRES TO BUY MOUNTAIN CABIN

The Truckee Chamber of Commerce has received a letter from a man in San Jose to the effect that he desires to purchase a mountain cabin in this region. The cabin may have one, two or three rooms and must be accessible by automobile during the winter months. It may be on the outskirts of Truckee, but preferably near one of the lakes, and it should be among the trees.

LOST: A PURSE

Stiff Gales Make Heavy Snow Drifts

Seventy-two Hour Storm Lashes Region, and Paralyzes Traffic. Railroad Rushes in Extra Snow Fighting Equipment and Many Extra Crews

As the paper goes to press the Truckee-Lake Tahoe-Sierra Region is in the clutches of the worst blizzard of the season. All highways are shut off on account of the big drifts, and the Southern Pacific Company is fighting with every piece of snow fighting equipment they have with a score of extra crews in an effort to keep their line open.

The summit has between 105 and and 115 inches of snow on the level, while Truckee has between five and six feet. Lake Tahoe has between 70 and 80 inches.

The storm started on Monday night with a heavy fall of snow, On Tuesday morning the gale began to blow, and the snow started to drift. The gale continued all day Tuesday, Tuesday night and Wednesday. By 11 A. M. Tuesday, the state highway department was obliged to shut off all traffic between Truckee and the Summit, and on Wednesday the storm had become so severe that traffic between Truckee and Reno had to be abandoned.

The telephone company had day and night patrols over the mountains in case of trouble, and were able to keep the lines open thru the entire storm.

The Sierra Pacific Power Company also had patrolmen on the mountains, and with the exception of about fifteen minutes, were able to maintain service.

All roofs in town are piled high with snow, and as soon as the storm abates, extra employment will be offered to unemployed to clear them, as this extra weight offers danger to all buildings.

Several members of the Reno and Lake Tahoe Ski Clubs took the opportunity to make practice jumps off the big ski jump scaffold.

HARRY ENGLEBRIGHT

ENGLEBRIGHT MAY BE NEXT WHIP IN HOUSE

Nevada County Congressman Held in Line to Lead Minority

With the retirement from the house of Representative Carl G. Bachmann on March 4th next, it will be necessary for the Republican Party to name a new "whip." Among the most likely successors to the post is Representative Harry Englebright of Nevada City.

As first assistant Republican whip during the Seventy-second Congress, Englebright has done effective work for his party and it is understood here that Minority Leader Snell of New York is looking with a great deal of favor on the assistant whip of California to fill the position made vacant by the defeat of Bachmann.

Representative Englebright always has been in steady attendance on the floor of the house during debate on important legislation and his close acquaintance with the present membership as well as with a large number of the incoming members will make him a valuable asset to any minority leader.

Sierra Pacific Power Have 'Trouble Shooters' On Duty at the Summit

Frank Gaiennie, local manager for the Sierra Pacific Power Company, is taking every precaution to protect the service for the vast Truckee-Tahoe-Sierra Region which it serves, and has placed two men, Geno Giovannoni and George Tonini on duty on the summit as "trouble shooters" to keep a watchful eye on the service night and day. The Sierra Pacific Power Company tie in with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company lines at this point Due to the low water and ice in the river, the Sierra Pacific Company is not generating electricity at their plants along the Truckee River, but purchasing all their "juice" from the P. G. & E.

Red Tape Holds Up Cheese for Postoffice Mouse Traps

HAVERHILL, Mass., — Before Postmaster Frank D. Babcock could obtain $1.65 worth of mouse traps for the postoffice here he had to advertise for bids and get approval from Washington.

He found that he would have to unwind a similar snarl of red tape to buy cheese for the traps.

The alternative was a broad hint to his subordinates that if each brought a little cheese from home it might save the situation.

FIREMEN HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET; ELECT OFFICERS

Joe Maloney Made Honorary Member of Truckee Fire Department. Fire Commissioners Address Firemen

C. A. Ocker was re-elected chief; Jess Maxsom was re-elected assistant chief; Dr. C. C. Cozzalio was re-elected secretary-treasurer and Harry Baldwin sergeant-of-arms.

Joe Maloney of the California State Highway registration station west of Truckee on the Victory Highway was elected as honorary member of the department.

Fire Commissioners O'Hanrahan and Bernard were present and gave interesting addresses, and expressed their willingness to co-operate with the firemen to the best of their ability and financial facilities.

After the meeting a banquet was served in the hotel dining room.

ROAST LAMB MAY BE A LUXURY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—Lack of rain until the present time has endangered California's early lamb crop according to a report of the federal state market reporting serivce.

While there are 77,000 sheep and lambs on feed for the market this month, the lack of rain has resulted in poor pasturage and the report pointed out that "lambs will not develop satisfactorily under present conditions."

At the present time there are 61,000 head of cattle on feed, slightly above the total for last year.

PORTOLA—(UP)—Just as winter sports were getting under way here, a robin appeared on the scene, This was regarded as a sure sign of spring, and the winter games plans lagged.

FAST DRIVERS MUST GET A NEW ALIBI

"With the erection of signs along the highway calling attention to the 45 mile limit there is no reason for ignorance," E. Raymond Cato, chief of the California Highway Patrol said.

Approximately 150 signs were placed on the roads at locations where long, smooth stretches of highway offered the temptation to step on it.

BREAKFAST TOAST CAUSES EXCITEMENT

STOCKTON, Cal., Jan. 26(UP)—It might have been a serious fire.

Answering a general alarm, firemen rushed to the home of T. C. Jackson. There was considerable smoke but the cause when located—just a piece of toast burning in the oven.

MARTINEZ—(UP)—Camello Perry, negro, called on a friend to borrow some money. The friend didn't have any, so Perry "borrowed" two chickens on his way out.

NEW TYPE OF MEN NEEDED TO GOVERN NEVADA COUNTY

As the days come and go, one thing grows more apparent, and that is the great need of a new type of county officials to take over the reins of our county government.

Nevada county is sadly in need of men of education, business training and executive ability. We need men who can roll up their sleeves and accomplish REAL results. We need men who can put Nevada county on the map. Men who can get out and contact the people of the county, and study our local problems and then go ahead and solve them. We need men who are big mentally; who can smile and be agreeable. Men who have a keen desire in their hearts to do something to make Nevada county bigger and better and more prosperous.

Our present county officials have been in office much too long. They lack enthusiasm, zest and the ability to do things for the taxpayers.

We need a new type of county officials that are broad minded, who do not believe in favorism, and who will serve every taxpayer in the entire county wth equal justice.

Yes, we need a shakeup in our county officials. We need an entirely new type at the county seat.

It's high time the taxpayers of Nevada county reorganized their business offices at the county seat, and showed a progressive spirit.

SENATOR SEWELL AND THE INSURANCE DEAL

James Rolph III, the governor's son's sensational testimony and admission that a $2,500 commission on a state contract for public liability was "split" among six "agents" is most disheartening to the taxpayers of the State of California, to say the least.

According to press reports, Sewell is reported to have denied that he accepted the $250 which Rolph states was designated to him.

Sewell has never been a favorite up in this region, due to the fact that he failed as a state assemblyman to show either ability or capacity, and left a most unimpressive record. And the fact that he has been mentioned in this latest legislative mix-up will be quite a blow to what few friends he has.

BOYS' SLEEPING TOGS

A curious fact was brought to light recently when the Chicago Junior League was preparing to stage a children's play. It needed a boy's night shirt for one of the properties. The great mid-western metropolis was searched from end to end of its shopping district, but nary a boy's night shirt could be found. Some of the leading stores reported it had been seven years since they had had the garment in stock. Oddly enough, men's night shirts were available. There is a steady sale of the latter, the stores report, and the garments are still manufactured. Boys, however, have gone over entirely to pajamas or sleeping suits with feet.

Here is the effect of feminine domination. It is the mothers of all these boys today and during the past seven years who have decreed that night shirts are no longer wanted. Beginning with the lads when they are mere infants, the mothers have brought them up to know nothing but sleeping suits and pajamas.

A big question arises. When these pajamaed boys reach manhood, will they adopt the nightshirt of their forefathers, or will they continue the pajama habit?

DRIVING POLICY

One of the state highway departments, observing motor traffic and analyzing its problems, concludes that the best driving policy is the Golden Rule. Which is something that many another group, studying many another problem, has discovered. There's much value in that good old rule.

Treat others as you would like to be treated, the traffic experts urge. Don't crowd. Don't hurry in the wrong place. Don't take chances that imperil the other fellow.

Remember that in driving you may crowd backward as well as forward, and that holding back a line of cars from their normal speed may cause as much trouble and danger as foolish speeding. The sensible and decent thing is to accommodate yourself to the line of traffic you are in. If you want to go slower, keep to the curb.

A final word of wisdom from the experts. "Don't take too much for granted." Always remember that the other fellow may do something foolish, and look out for him.

CRYING OF BABY HAS NO RELATION TO SEX

There is apparently no relation between the amount of crying that a baby does and its sex. Boys and girls cry equally easily, and both do their least amount of crying at about the age of four months.

These findings are contained in "A Study of the Crying of Infants During Mental and Physical Tests," which has just been completed by Dr. Nancy Bayley of the University of California Institute of Child Welfare. The complete report has been published by the Journal of Genetic Psychology.

Observations of crying tendencies were made on sixty-one infants, thirty-one boys and thirty girls, during the course of a study of the development of infants from the first few days of life to childhood. The developmental study required a number of tests of mental and motor response, and reflexes, physiological measurements, and the taking of motion pictures. The variability of the child's emotional reaction to these unaccustomed stimuli was expressed most noticeably by crying.

Concerning the results of the observations Dr. Bayley says: "When the different causes of crying were considered, it was found that some were outgrown and others acquired as the children grew older. In the earlier months crying resulted mostly from internal, organic causes—bodily pain and distress; later the external environment became an increasingly potent factor. Such factors as fatigue at the end of the test, and colic pain, became relatively less important than fear of the strange situation and dislike of unusual handling."

SHACKLES OF FEAR

Are we free? Are you free? Can you speak your convictions? Dare you voice your opinions? Is your soul your own? Are your expressions, your actions your own, or are they controlled by others? Are you in the grip of a bondage that will not let you be yourself, that will not let you live your life in accordance with your highest ideals? Probably you are. And probably, if you are not, you are the rare exception.

We Americans prate much about individualism? but are we individualistic? Are we individuals? Don't we think enmasse? Don't we act enmasse? And regardless of what we think, don't we do, or fail to do, accordingly as we are pressed, or subtly influenced, or cleverly oppressed?

The employee is afraid of his employer. He will not admit that he is afraid, but he finds it best not a voice a sentiment of which his employer does not approve. His employer is afraid, too; afraid of some organization to which he belongs; afraid of some well-intrenched group. He will not admit that he is afraid, but he finds it expedient to keep still sometimes when his soul demands that he speak up. And he finds it well to speak up at times, when his entire soul demands that he keep still. And the groups and the intrenched organizations of which the employer stands in awe, are afraid of larger groups, bigger organizations. Great newspapers supposed impartially to report the news, will give one side and suppress the other, or soft pedal one side and loud pedal the other. They are afraid, afraid to tell the truth. They are afraid that displeased forces will descend on them and wreck them. Preachers stand before their congregations in mighty denunciation of the sins of Solomon, and of the devilment of David, but not one word about the crimes of their own congregations. They are afraid, afraid they will be smitten for their temerity, even as their Christ was smitten.

Disgusted with low ideas, with the selfish purposes, with the devilish intrigue that surrounds us on every hand, we keep still. Or we speak in praise of that which we despise. And if we protest, it is with sidewise glances and in whispers, behind closed doors. Even then the story of our rebelliousness may leak out, and we are disciplined, maybe destroyed.

We are not free. We are in bondage; we are slaves to cowardice—moral cowardice. Physically we will fight and die, if the powers say fight, and applaud us. But the powers may do dastardly things, and we won't peep, because we are slaves, slaves to fear.

This nation will never be free, much as it sings of freedom, until its people cast off the shackes of moral fear and cowardice and lift up their souls to the pure white light of invincible truth.

Paste Pot and Shears

OLD NEWSPAPERS; OBSERVE AND SMILE

There is a volume of what were once newspapers, each on a small half-sheet, yellow and time-stained of a coarse fabric, and imprinted with a rude old type. Their aspect conveys a singular impression of antiquity, in a species of literature which we are accustomed to consider as connected with only the present moment. Ephemeral as they were intended and supposed to be, they have long outlived the printer and his whole subscription-list, and have proved more durable, as to their physical existence, than most of the timber, bricks, and stone of the town where they were issued. These are but the least of their triumphs. The government, the interests, the opinions, in short, all the moral circumstances that were contemporary with their publication, have passed away, and left no better record of what they were than may be found in these frail leaves. Happy are the editors of newspapers! Their productions excel all others in immediate popularity, and are certain to acquire another sort of value with the lapse of time. They scatter their leaves to the wind, as the sybil did, and posterity collects them, to be treasured up among the best materials of its wisdom.

It is pleasant to take one of these little dingy half-sheets between the thumb and finger; and picture forth the personage who, above ninety years ago, held it, wet from the press, and steaming, before the fire. Many of the numbers bear the name of an old colonial dignitary. There he sits, a major, a member of the council, and a weighty merchant, in his high-backed arm-chair, wearing a solemn wig and grave attire, such as befits his imposing gravity of mien, and displaying but little finery, except a huge pair of silver

STAR DUST

By Rose Bennington

I packed all my things in a wagon
Hitched it tight, to a glittering star
That star, with the claws of a dragon,
Tore to shreds each part of my wagon,
And left me a soul searing scar.
Too long did I compare and measure
All things to a glamorous fake.
For of tinsel and gilt was the treasure.
Now I live to repent at my leisure
Pure gold tossed aside for its sake

HEADLIGHTS ON MUDHENS WOULD BE O. K.

COLUSA Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—Any movement to equip mudhens with headlights and sirens would be heartily endorsed by three prominent residents here.

Returning from Sacramento recently, Councilmen R. E. Button and M. A. Sparks and Phil B. Arnold were cut and scratched by flying glass when a mudhen crashed through the windshield and landed in Arnold's lap.

The bird was killed by the impact.

By "SWANEE"

A little spike buck less than a year old has been captured by the Henry Soll family of Pine Lodge The little fellow has been a boarder at their home all summer, eating the food they left for him on the beach each night. The coyotes have chased and harrassed him and nearly gotten him a number of times at night, but he eluded them by plunging into the lake waters. When the recent snowstorm made the snow so deep and loose Mr. Soll and the children donned snow shoes and easily captured the little fellow. He is nowa pet with freedom of the house, much to his delight and the others too. The Solls two years ago lost a pet doe, Mary, well known to all the towns-folk, whom they had kept for nearly ten years around the place. She too had been rescued from the lake, and altho she wore a bell around her neck, she was accidentally shot one day by an over-ambitious hunter.

Captain Hans Hansen of Rubicon Lodge was host at dinner on Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Soll and family and Lee Hill and Harry Grayson.

Captain Hans Hansen was taken ill on Wednesday with influenza. Other residents of the Meek's Bay district who are ill with the flu at present are Mr. and Mrs. William Warwick and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heller. Mrs. Ted Marshall, whose husband has just recovered from pneumonia, was herself taken seriously ill last week. Latest reports state that she is still in bed in a very weakened condition.

Lee Orr, Lee Hill and Leif Neilsen of Homewood recently made a long trip on skiis goin to Miller Lake and then on to Quail Lake. The trip was an arduous one as the snow was soft and loose. They stopped at the Quail Lake Mines and a genial old miner invited them into his dugout where they rested and were given food and hot drinks, which they gladly accepted before starting on their return trip home.

On Sunday Mrs. Lee Hill of Homewood paid a visit to the C. A Swanson home at Sunnyside, making the trip on skiis. She enjoyed a game of pinochle and a hot lunch before returning home.

Bill Topp of Tahoe Cedars left on Thursday to spend several days at Modesto.

On Friday Constable Carl Bechdolt left Tahoe for Reno. He left about 10 o'clock in the morning but didn't get to Truckee until about 4 o'cock in the afternoon, much to his dismay. The snow plow came thru to Tahoe followed by the mail truck around ten and Mr. Bechdolt left when they arrived. The roads were good and he had no difficulty until he reached Squaw Creek. A short distance after crossing the bridge he was very suddenly and completely covered by a huge snow slide, which buried the car. Unable to open the door he climbed out of the window. Having no shovel along he set out on foot for help. Starting back toward Tahoe he had walked only about half a mile when he encountered the mail man and his truck in a similar predicament. It took them over four hours to dig the two cars out and clear the highway.

The snow plow made its appearance on Saturday morning on the south side of town going as far as Ward Creek, but turned back when the highway department ordered it back to the summit, owing to the extremely heavy fall of snow.

There was a special meeting of the Tahoe Ski Club directors on Monday night at President Weller Atherton's home. The chief accomplishment of the evening was the selection of those who were to be sent, with expenses paid, to the State Ski Championship Meet at Big Bear Lake on February 11, 12. and 13. The directors voted to send Mrs. Joe Henry, who will enter the women's cross country race, Jos Henry, who will enter the men's 10 mile race and Harry Johansen, who will enter the men's 30 mile race, and a junior jumper in both C and D classes, the nominees to be determined later at a local tryout here.

On Saturday Mrs. Wm. Crone, assisted by her daughter Sarah, was the hostess to a large party of friends at a delightful luncheon served at her home in Tahoe City The repast was served at 12:30 and was followed by bridge which occupied the remainder of the afternoon. Those invited to share the delighful afternoon included Mesdames Joe Howrigan, N. R. Mayfield, George Bliss, Robert Watson, Weller Atherton, A. M. Anderson, E. H. Pomin, Henry Rose, Benny Mayhew, J. Malcolm, John Stevens, Fred Cowell, W. A. Simmonds, Joe Henry, C. W. Vernon, Charles Swanson, A. Sumpter, Misses June West, Celeste Planett, Florence Vernon, Mildred Watson and Mrs. Crone's mother, Mrs. Pond. First prize was won by Mrs. George Bliss, second by Mrs. Joe Howrigan and consolation by Mrs. W. A. Simmonds.

The management of the Lorraine Lumber Company, situated near Brockway, gave a large dinner party last week at the mill. After a feast of turkey the guests donned their wraps and were treated to a miniature snow carnival, with tobogan ing, dog-sledding and snowball battle. Tahoeites who enjoyed the novel party were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wagner and Mrs. and Mrs. Milton Burg of Lake Forest.

Ten inches of snow have fallen during the last 24 hours on Monday bringing the total for the season up to 49 inches. The fall at this time last year measured 67 inches, according to Mr. W. A. Simmonds, in charge of the Truckee, Carson Irrigation District here.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Neilsen were guests of the H. D. Worden family of Warden's Camp on Sunday at dinner. Bridge was enjoyed during the evening.

Miss Sarah Parino, niece of Mr. George Bacchi of Lake Forest, is visiting the Bacchi family for several weeks. She hails from Sacramento.

Miss Katherin Bacchi, who left with her father George Bacchi for Sacramento, has returned to Tahoe Her father also has changed his plans and will return to join his family here.

On Monday morning when Judge George Bliss arose he found that the lock on his garage had been broken open some time during the night. Investigating, he found nothing missing, but his coat and a blanket left in the garage had been placed in the back seat of the car, where some weary wayfarer had evidently crept in out of the snowstorm to sleep.

BILL INTRODUCED TO LOWER SCHOOL TAXES ONE-THIRD

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—School district taxes in Nevada county would be reduced $28,000 a year under terms of a measure apparently gaining favor in the state legislature.

Introduced by Senator Herbert C Jones of San Jose, the bill would reduce local school district taxes by one-third by means of reducing the maximum taxes to be levied in the future.

The county saving is estimated on the basis of the 1931-32 receipts from district sources for elementary high school and junior college districts which total $101,249,989 for the entire state.

Indicating a belief that the present state-county plan of school support should not be removed from the state constitution, the senate constitutional amendments committee tabled a bill by Senator Arthur H. Breed, Oakland, which would have eliminated these "fixed charges."

Lawmakers agree that some reduction in school costs is vitally necessary if any relief is given taxpayers. But they do not propose to place the allocation of funds in the hands of the legislature each session assertedly because it would result in "continued educational lobbying."

It is this contention upon which Jones' proposal is based.

"By far the greatest share of the school costs are borne by the school districts," Senator Jones said. "It appears logical then that relief should be granted the taxpayers in the districts first. By reducing district assessments one-third, these property owners will be afforded a direct saving of approximately $26,000,000 annually."

NORDEN NEWS

By C. W. KRAMER

Norden had the unique pleasure of playing host to eight members of The Alpine Hiking Club of San Francisco, who came up in a different role of sports in that of playing in the snow sports offered by the high Sierras. Skiing and tobogganing were the chief diversions enjoyed. The Alpine Club made their headquarters at the Sierra Ski Club's home at Norden.

Friends of the Clarence Libby family of Old Summit will be pleased to learn that they can locate them in their new home at Tunnel Six, having recently moved in early last week, where they will be at home to their friends.

Several Norden residents were hurried visitors to the capital city this week upon learning that the California National Bank closed its doors.

Mrs. William Seitz of Norden was called suddenly to Sacramento upon receiving news that her brother was confined in a Sacramento hospital.

Chares A. Gunn, a Roseville fireman on furlough, was a visitor at the Sydney Snyder home at Norden

Joseph Casari of B&B 108 Tunnel Six spent a few days about the Bay on business and pleasure.

George Backarich of B&B108 Tunnel Six visited with his parents, the John Backarich family at Tahoe City early this week.

Lobbyists To Be Barred From State Senate Floor

By J. F. McLAUGHLIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—"Cramping the style" of professional lobbyists evidently is not going to be classed as a minor activity of the state senate at the 1933 session of the legislature.

Under rules already adopted for transaction of business in the upper house, members of the "third house" are prohibited from plying their trade on the senate floor while that body is in session. And, according to some senators, more stringent regulations are comtemplated.

As one instance, Senator Ralph E. Swing, San Bernardino, noted as the Nemesis of paid lobbyists, has worked out plans to further limit their activities. He will attempt to amend the present senate rules, he said, in such a way as to bar lobbyists from the floor of the chamber entirely, whether the senators are in session or not, unless special permission is granted them to enter.

"We propose to enforce the senate lobby rules more vigorously than ever this session," Senator Swing said.

"There is no reason why the senators should be pestered by paid lobbyists, representing this interest and that, while they are seated at their desks in the senate chamber.'

In addition to being deprived of the privileges of the floor, lobbyists must, under the new rules, register with the senate sergeant-at-arms, giving the name of "person or persons, corporation or corporations or interest represented, or intended to be represented."

There, with no rules to hinder their progress, the lobbyists may amble down the aisles or wander among the assemblymen's desks, without the need for keeping a watchful eye on the approach of a grim-faced sergeant-at-arms.

Of course, a frigid glance, or an icy stare, may be encountered occasionally by members of the "third house' in their peregrinations thru the assembly chamber, but then, there's nothing in the rules to prevent returning them.

shoe-buckles, curiously carved. Observe the awful reverence of his visage, as he reads his Majesty's most gracious speech; and the deliberate wisdom with which he ponders over some paragraph of provincial politics, and the keener intelligence with which he glances at the ship-news and commercial advertisements. Observe and smile! He may have been a wise man in his day; but, to us, the wisdom of the politician appears like folly, because we can compare his prognostics with actual results; and the old merchant seems to have busied himself about vanities, because we know that the expected ships have been lost at sea or mouldered at the wharves; that his imported broadcloths were long ago worn to tatters.

There is a good deal of amusemen, and some profit, in the perusal of those little items which characterize the manners and circumstances of the country. New England was then in a state of incomparably more picturesque than at present, or than it has been within the memory of man; there being, as yet, only a narrow strip of civilization along the edge of a vast forest, peopled with enough of its original race to contrast the savage life with the old customs of another world. The white population, also, was diversified by the influx of all sorts of expatriated vagabonds, and by the continual importation of bond-servants from Ireland and elsewhere, so that there was a wild and unsettled multitude forming a strong minority of the descendants of the Puritans. Then, there were the slaves, contributing their dark shade to the picture of society. The consequence of all this was a great variety and singularity of action and incident, many instances of which might be selected from these columns, where they are told with a simplicity and quaintness of style that bring the striking points into very strong relief.—From "The Snow Image," by Nathaniel Hawthorne.

LOST FORTUNE IS A PAINFUL EXPERIENCE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—To have a fortune within his grasp and then have it suddenly slip away is described as a painful experience by Albert Mullinix, local mail clerk.

Mullinix was sorting mail at the railway terminal post office here when one of the packages slid from his hands and landed on his foot with a heavy thud.

Fellow-clerks found the package contained a bar of gold weighing more than 20 pounds which was being shipped from a Jackson mine to a smelter. Doctors said Mullinix's broken foot would heal rapidly.

LEGISLATIVE SIDELIGHTS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—Senator R. R. Ingels, Mendocino county, introduced a bill calling for drastic reductions in salaries of all California judges.

"Your bill's all right," said a colleague, "except for one thing. It doesn't provide medical treatment for the judges when they hear about it."

Under present laws if you drive while drunk and are convicted, you're guilty of a felony. Under revisions proposed this week if you drive while drunk you are guilty only of a misdemeanor. But if you hit someone you may be convicted of a felony.

The senate paid mileage claims of legislators, amounting to $7,200 this week. The largest amount went to Senator Ben Hulse of Imperial county, who received $66.00. The smallest amount was appropriated for Senator J. M. Inman of Sacramento, who got a thin dime for carfare.

In the future, if you wish to adopt a baby, it will cost you $25. That is, if the plan outlined in the governor's budget is adopted. At present it costs the state $50 to complete an adoption, and he would have the person adopting share half the cost. "If they can't afford a $25 fee they can't afford a baby in the family," the governor said.

A contractor, testifying in the Rolph investigation, complained because state architects demanded highest class materials in a state building, thus increasing its price by $40,000. "It showed the state had a champagne appetite and a beer income," said Senator Inman.

During a lull in senate routine, a rather stout gentleman sat down in a folding chair alongside one of the members. It collapsed with a crash and the visitor found himself sitting on the floor. And was his face red

No women can be sent to California's new "Institution for Women" at Tehachapi because it is an "institution' and the law says they must go to "prison" for felonies. So Senator J. I. Wagy of Bakersfield has introduced a bill calling the new institution a prison.

Senator Ben Hulse, Imperial, was urging the passage of a bill. A page boy suddenly galloped up the aisle and presented him (at some member's request) a fine, large, red rose. Hulse blushed almost the color of the flower. He's still trying to discover who sent it.

A BABY CARRIAGE, SOME "CHINESE MEDICINE" AND GRAND JURY

Federal prohibition agents had different ideas, and stopped Louie. The Oriental admitted he had a little "Chinese medicine" in the baby carriage.

The "medicine," agents testified, was two five-gallon barrels of whiskey, so the federal grand jury indicated Louie on a charge of possession and transportation of liquor, and, incidentally, confiscated the baby buggy.

"CLEAN UP STATE STATUTES," SAYS JONES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—Assemblyman W. M. Jones, Montebello, has started a campaign to "clean up" California statutes.

As a start he has introduced in the lower house 24 bills repealing antiquated laws such as the act of 1901 which provided for the licensing of bicycles and tricycles to raise funds to build cycle paths.

Other laws which Assemblyman Jones would throw out include the protection of the Antwerp homing pigeon, the 1893 act prohibiting prize fighting, and the proviso auctioneers must give quarterly reports.

Cost Of Government In Nevada County Was $420,331 Last Year

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—The total cost of government in Nevada county was $420,331 last year, of which $32,602 represented the cost of crime.

This was disclosed in the report of the crime problem advisory committee, headed by Rolland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, to the state legislature.

The 58 counties of California last year paid out a total of $291,299,961 for operating their county governments, the report showed, while the cost of crime for the entire state totaled $12,449,573.

Alpine county, smallest in the state in population, also had the smallest cost of crime, or $1,507. Los Angeles county had the largest, or $4,255,174. San Francisco, city and county combined, had a total cost of $3,910,022.

If the state is ever to solve its crime problem it must begin with the subject of juvenile delinquency, the committee reported.

"The importance of this fact is further exemplified by the realization that under our present system, efforts to rehabilitate adult criminal offenders have not had the desired results," the report stated.

"Treatment of the delinquent child in his home, a foster home or an institution should be based on thorough understanding of his needs and the ways in which his environment has failed to meet them

"It has been found the policy of some counties to use the detention home for permanent institutional care of delinquent children. This practice should be discouraged. The detention home should be used for temporary custody, pending study, investigation and disposition."

Other recommendations of the committee were:

Uniformity of statewise standards in probation work, and the training and certification of probation officers.

State subsidy to counties of probation work conditioned upon counties meeting state required standards.

Increased personnel in probation offices.

Increased use and development of the coordinating council plan, as worked out in Berkeley and Los Angeles, in which agencies dealing with children are represented.

NEW GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—Mrs. Mary R. Reeves lost 40 pounds by exercising.

"But," said Mrs. Reeves, "I didn't want to reduce and the exercising was forced upon me by my husband."

On that ground Mrs. Reeves was granted a divorce by Judge Dudley Valentine.

MYSTERIOUS BOTTLE IS CAUSE OF THESE JURORS DISMISSAL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—Four Court jurors in a civil case sought relaxation from a mysterious bottle.

"It wouldn't have been so bad if they had been sampling evidence in a case," the judge declared after discovery of liquor in the room.

The four jurors were dismissed.

DOUBLE FEE FOR LICENSE AFTER JAN. 31

SACRAMENTO, January 24—All persons who apply for 1933 motor vehicle license plates after January 31st will be required to pay a double fee.

This warning was issued today by Russell Bevans, registrar of motor vehicles, as a reminder to all that the law requires the penalty must go on at the end of this month regardless of the excuse the motorist may have for his failure to seek new plates.

"We recognize that even this small fee is a serious drain on the resources of many of our people and we are going to be lenient wherever it is possible," Bevans said. "However, the law gives us no choice and we must enforce it."

The penalty is equal to the amount of the fee. For the owner of an ordinary passenger car this means he will have to pay $6 instead of $3 for his plates. It will mean a great deal more to the owner of a commercial vehicle as these fees are much higher.

New plates may be secured at all branches of the Department and at branches of the authorized auto clubs.

However, if the motorist does not have the time to make such a trip a simpler method is for him to mail his fee and white slip to the department's main office in Sacramento. His plates will be sent to him at the address given on his certificate of registration.

If the applicant has moved since last registering, he should write his new address in legible letters on the certificate and he should indicate the county of his legal residence.

Those who have assumed the legal ownership of their vehicles during the year are required to send an extra $1 for transfer fee.

ANOTHER "DEAD MAN" COMES TO LIFE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP) — The old story of a "dead man" come to life was reenacted here this week.

Mrs. Nick Marincovich sued her second husband for divorce.

She produced a certificate from the state department of health to show "Max Brady" the name she said her first husband went by, was dead.

About that time Mike Bradovich appeared in person before the court and the hearing was halted.

"Perhaps what the world needs more than anything else at this moment is an outbreak of good will and human understanding to overwhelm the suspicion and mistrust which has paralyzed trade and affected almost every relationship."

The cement of a higher humanity will unite all interests in the one divinity" (p. 571).

ALPINE COUNTY SHOWS INCREASED AUTO SALES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—Cheering news for the automotive industry—automobile sales in Alpine county have increased by 50 per cent.

While reports from the other 57 California counties showed a marked falling off in sales for 1932, automobile purchases in the small northeastern county were just half as many more than were recorded in 1931.

The figures were explained as follows: Alpine county has a population of only .241 persons. In 1931 residents of the county purchased two automobiles, but in 1932 business increased to such an extent that three cars were sold.

PLACER COUNTY JAIL MAKES HIT WITH THIS UNEMPLOYED

AUBURN, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—Winter unemployment isn't going to affect one Placer county resident.

Last December, William Spaelti beseeched county authorities to arrest him on a technical charge of vagrancy in order that he might have a place to spend the winter.

Completing a forty-day sentence recently, Spaelti, after one day of freedom, still was without a place to go. So he again approached the officers with a request for another jail sentence as a vagrant. He was accommodated.

SOME TAX EXEMPTIONS MAY COME TO AN END

Assemblyman Albert F. Ross, Redding, expects the legislature to adopt his constitutional amendment removing all tax exemption privileges now enjoyed by veterans, churches, orphanages, colleges, cemeteries and future issues of city county and state bonds.

"Although I am a veteran myself and have enjoyed the tax exemption provided for veterans, I believe these exemptions should be stopped," Ross said.

MOUNTAIN LION IS DETRIMENT TO SHEEP GROWERS

By J. F. McLAUGHLIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 26—(UP)—The mountain lion, dreaded enemy of the California wool grower is the greatest killer on the western continent today, according to Jay Bruce, state lion hunter.

Bruce ought to know, for he has slain more of the beasts than any other man in the state. It is estimated by state authorities that every adult lion will account for at least $1,000 worth of sheep and goats in a year.

"The average annual kill of lions has been 256," it was stated. From these figures it would seem that the work of state lion hunters is worth at least a quarter million dollars to the wool growers each year.

That was the reason 25 years ago for offering a bounty of $20 for lion scalps, which in 1917 was increased to $30 for female lions.

Since that time California has paid bounties on 6,396 claims. Of these, 12 were paid in Nevada county.

Known in Mexico as the "puma," the mountain lion in southern states is called the panther; along the Pacific coast, the cougar, and in Montana and Colorado, the mountain lion.

Sheep men are not the only ones who have benefitted from activities of the state fish and game commission in this respect. Thousands of deer are protected annually for benefit of deer hunters, as a result of state lion hunters' work.

Mountain lions are extremely fond of dog flesh, and will seize a sleeping dog—but generally turn tail and run if the dog puts up a courageous fight.

They also favor porcupine meat as part of their diet, showing little concern for the animal's quills. Their method of destroying these small animals is to slap them over their backs, then kill them by ripping them open, thus avoiding the porcupine's stiff, barbed pines.

STOCKTON—(UP)—Signs of gory death were seen in the automobile of Marlo Pigozzi, found overturned. But no one was hurt. Marlo was only bringing home a bucket of blood from the slaughterhouse.

HIS SONG

Garner's campaign songs, "The Eyes of Texas" is the official song of the University of Texas. It goes like this:

The eyes of Texas are upon you,
All the livelong day
The eyes of Texas are upon you,
You cannot get away.
Do not think you can escape them.
From night till early in the morn,
The eyes of Texas are upon you,
Till Gabriel blows his horn.
